Numb. 4285.

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, November 16. 1715.

From the Hague Courant, dated Nov. 19.

Vienna, November 6.

THE 4th Instant being the Festival of St. Charles Borromeo, the Name-Day of the Emperor, the Court appeared very splendid. His Majesty received the Compliments of all the Nobility, and rode in his Coach with the Elector of Triers to the Parish Church of St. Paul, whither the Empress Regent was also in a Sedan. Mass being over, the Relicks of that Saint which are there kept were set out for publick View, and in the Evening there was a fine Concert [illegible] Court. And the Court being also the Birth-Day of the Elector of Triers, the Emperor made him a rich Present. On Monday Prince Eltzthasi came back hither from Hungary. Last Night the Assembly of the States of the Lower Austria was opened with the usual Solemnity. The Emperor being present in it, the Upper Chancellor made a Speech, wherein he set forth the present State of Affairs; to which his Imperial Majesty added a short pathetick Speech, wherein, among other things, he mentioned the prospect of a Turkish War. The Levies making in the Hereditary Countries go on very successfully, and Recruits are daily sent to Hungary. Of the Troops sent from Italy for Hungary, the Regiment of Pate is already arrived here.

From the Hague Courant, dated Nov. 22.

Vienna, Nov. 9. The States of the Lower Austria are so well satisfied with the Emperor's Speech to them, that they immediately gave his Majesty assurances that they will stand him with their Lives and Fortunes: And 'tis said they have agreed to give a Subsidy of 956000 Florins for his Majesty's Service.

Hamburgh, Nov. 12. 'The Deputies of this City at the Court of France have concluded a Treaty of Commerce with that Crown, whereby our Merchants are to enjoy the same Priviledges the Dutch have. The Chevalier du Bourg, Minister of Spain to the King of Sweden, is likely to tarry here some time before he goes to that King. 'Tis said he has received Instructions to renew the Treaty of Commerce with this City. The Sieur Maltzburg, Minister of Hesse Cassel, having found Means to come out of Straelsund, is gone to Lubeck, which gave rise to a Report some time ago that the Count de Croissy was retired from Straelsund to Lubeck; but 'tis now known that that Minister is still at Bergen, the little City in the Isle of Rugen. The Secretary of General Ranck, who is come hither from Straelsund, reports that they are in great Want there of all things, but especially of Salt and Fewel; that not only the German Troops desert in Crowds, but also that the Swedish Troops who remain in Service are extreamly discontented at the sorry Food that is given them. The King of Sweden has sent his Plate to be coined, in order to raise Money for his Occasions. The Swedes that were in the Dutchy of Bremen, and have for these three Years refused to swear Allegiance to the King of Denmark, for which their Estates were confiscated, have come into Stade last Week and taken the Oaths to the Hanover Regency, in order to recover their Estates. Letters from Petersburg mention, that his Czarian Majesty has sent four Ships laden with Artillery and Ammunition to his new Port of Royerwick, which being a great deal more commodious, and nearer than that of Revel, is to be fortified immediately, in such Manner that the Men of War which are at present at Revel may enter it this Winter, where they will lie very safe, and be more at hand to put to Sea next Summer: And 'tis said his Majesty will himself come thither to forward the Work, and even give Orders for some new Works to be added, from whence it is inferred that his Fleet will be early at Sea next Spring, in order to execute the Designs projected against Sweden, unless that Crown prevent it by a Peace. The Muscovites that were to have enter'd into Pomerania, have not advanced since the General Count de Fleming has by his Letters to the Russian General Czeremetoff represented the Danger that the Removal of those Troops would expose Poland to, which has induced that General to cause them to halt, and he sent away two Expresses, one to Petersburg and the other to the Camp before Straelsund.

Paris, Nov. 16. 'The News of the Loss of the Galeons being apprehended to be too true, occasions a terrible Consternation here. 'Tis foreseen it must necessary occasion great Bankrupcies, and add to that Misery of the People, which is already so great that they crowd about the Regent's Coach as he passes the Streets, as it happened Yesterday in the Rue St. Antoine. The Jesuites take advantage of this Misery, and altho' every Body knows 'tis the Effect of the late Government wherein those Fathers had so great Influence, they insinuate it as the Fault of the Regency. 'Tis assured that Father Tellier is ordered to retire to la Fleche with a Pension of 400 Livres per Annum.

Paris, Nov. 20. 'A Courier is arrived from Cardinal de la Tremouille, who 'tis said sends word to the Regent, that the Pope is very much irritated against the Court of France, because the Constitution is not yet accepted, and has ordered him to represent it to him with all possible Vigor. The King of Spain also seems to take off the Mask, and various Speculations arise upon the Validity of his Renunciation, which are warmly canvass'd by the different Parties, and looked upon by cooler Heads with concern, as the prelude to a Civil War. In the mean time a Reform of the Troops of France is actually resolved upon: 40 Men out of every Company of the Swiss and French Guards will be dismissed, and 'tis said the Reform will be greater in the other Corps. A love of Peace may be one Reason, but apparently the Necessity of the State is the greatest cause of it. The Small-Pox reigning at Paris, the Regent has declared he will leave the time of the young King's coming thither to the Judgment of his Majesty's Physician.

From the Camp at Stirling, Nov. 10. This Morning the Duke of Argyle received Intelligence, that the Earl of Mar with the Rebels is come from Perth to Achtertairder, and that 'tis reported among them they are to advance. The three Regiments left at Glasgow and Kilsyth will joyn us to Morrow Noon; and then his Grace designs to pass the River, in order to meet the Rebels and attack them. Of the Rebels who passed the Fryth, and afterwards seperated from their Body in the South, 400 have been taken Prisoners.

Exeter, Nov. 8. The Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council of this Ancient and Loyal Corporation in Common Council assembled, have unanimously elected his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales Lord High Steward of this City of Exeter.

London, November 16.

London, November 16.

By the Express arrived Yesterday from General Wills there was Advice, that he having [illegible] from Vigo and marched directly for Portugal, had found the Bridge which is on this Side the Town guarded by the Lord Darwentwater with 400 Horse and as many Foot, but at his Approach they fled into the Town; upon which, after he had posted some of his Troops upon the Bridge, he advanced and made a Lodgment at the entry of the Town, on which Occasion there being a Dispute, 'tis said the Lord Darwentwater was killed. But as General Wills had only with him Preston's Regiment of Foot, the rest of his Troops being either Dragoons or Horse, he deferred attacking the Town till the Battallions of Sabine and Vane were come up, who were to joyn him in two Days, and then he hopes to give a good Account of the Rebels, although they are talked to be near 4000 Men, since they have been joyned by the Popish Inhabitants of Preston and other neighbouring Places.

Mr. Cadogan being arrived at Dover from Flanders, came to Town last Night. Six Dutch Ships are arrived in the River, on board which are part of the Forces from Ostend: They parted at the Heighth of Harwich with the Ships that carried the rest of those Troops, who proceeded Northwards.
